

Northwest Society

The OAL is comprised of nine (9) local optometric societies representing members who practice in specific geographic areas.

Contact or visit with a local chapter for more information about an area. Get to know society members. Talk with them.

Sometimes local societies may also have employment listings or practice opportunities listed in their local newsletters. Many also provide frequent and inexpensive continuing education opportunities.

It is our OAL societies that organize grassroots efforts to elect senators and representatives who understand the concerns of optometry.
